

An Expansion and Betterment Sale Begins This Week----A Vast Mercantile Movement With a Host of Remarkable Values.

We must have more room—Our fast increasing trade demands it—So we have decided to remove our large Dress Making Department, which now occupies half the floor space on the second floor of our building, to beautiful and new quarters on the third floor. We will tear down all the fixtures on the second floor and construct a large addition to the Cloak, Suit and Upholstery Departments. The entire second floor must be turned over to the contractors in two weeks. This means that the stock contained in the Cloak Room, including Cloth Suits, Separate Skirts, Shirt Waists, Shirt Waist Suits, Infants' Dresses, Furs Drap. ried, Curtains and Upholstery Goods of all sorts, must be moved out and that space elsewhere in the store must be encroached upon. We propose to reduce our inconvenience to a minimum by promptly closing out a large part of the stocks affected.

At Prices That Are In Many Cases Far Below Usual Wholesale Cost.

The entire second floor will be re-arranged. The departments will have bright new fixtures, and in most cases, new locations. These changes will affect some of our very large and most important stocks, and these stocks are to be reduced in volume as much as possible in anticipation of the general re-adjustment of space and location. Beginning to-morrow therefore we will begin a great merchandise movement which, for want of a more excessive title, we shall call "an expansion and Betterment Sale." For expansion of space compels the rebuilding, and the better serving of our customers will be attended by the re-adjustment of the second floor departments. The sale will be an event of interest to every one of our customers and to the public generally. Every department will have something to offer far under value. Some of the lots perhaps will be too small to advertise. It will be well to come and look through the store every day.

New Master of Trains.

Mr. W. O. Chambers, of Livingston, who has been Assistant Master of Trains on the Knoxville branch of the L. & N., will succeed Mr. W. H. Anderson, as Master of Trains of the K. C. division of the L. & N., and will be stationed in this city. Mr. Anderson, as mentioned by this paper several weeks ago, has been promoted to Superintendent, and a more deserved promotion was never made by the L. & N. He has worked his way up and is now one of the most valuable railroad men in the country. We understand that a number of other promotions will occur in the Paris office. Mr. Anderson's headquarters will be in this city, instead of Cincinnati, where the Superintendent now has his office.

Ferguson-Smith Wedding.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Edmonia Virginia Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith, and Mr. William Clyde Ferguson, of Paris, which was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at the First Christian Church, Georgetown. It was a green and white affair. The church was simply, but effectively decorated. The chancel was banked in palms, rubber plants and other tropical plants, interwoven with enormous bunches of daisies and lillies.

The special guests' seats were designated by bunches of daisies and asparagus plumosa which were tied to the ends of the pews with tulle bows. The bridal party entered from the sides of the church, over which were suspended floral arches of the plumosa and daisies tied with long streamers of tulle.

While the guests were being seated, Miss Holloway rendered Faulke's Marche Nuptiale in E. Miss Nell Nunnally then sang, "Oh, Promise Me," very sweetly, which was followed by Berger's "Amour-cuse," Max Eugene's "Cupid's Garden," and Tobani's "Hearts and Flowers," by the organist. Next Miss Nunnally sang, "Your Lips have Said You Love Me," after which Miss Holloway played Richard Wagner's ever beautiful "Romanze."

To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March came the bridal party on either side of the church. Miss Mary Herndon was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Misses Nell Nunnally, Nan Finley and Clay Croxton, of Winchester. The groomsmen were Messrs. Major Smith, Carley Wilmoth, of Paris, and Ike Bond, of Louisville. Little Misses Martha Elizabeth Coleman and Archie Parrish acted as flower girls.

The bride was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Clarence Kenney, of Paris, where the marriage vows were read by Elder Victor Dorris, pastor of the church. During the ceremony the "Venetian Love Song" was beautifully rendered by the organist.

The bride, who is a beautiful little blonde of the Dresden type, was radiant in a mousseline satin gown, with a point lace berth. She wore the regulation veil, caught in the hair with a spray of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley.

The maid of honor was attired in a white lace robe and carried white roses tied with green ribbon.

The bridesmaids all wore white French basette dresses with green sashes and carried white carnations with green streamers. The bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy pair left for an extensive trip to St. Louis, New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

The bride is one of the belles of Scott county, and was the subject of The Belle of the Blue Grass painted by the artist, Mrs. Hattie Hutchcraft Hill, and which hangs as a glowing specimen of Kentucky's beauty in the Kentucky building at the World's Fair.

Those in attendance from Paris were: Miss Bessie Edwards, Miss Margaret Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Volney Ferguson, Mrs. J. S. Sweeney, Mrs. Richard Harris, Miss Jannita Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. James Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, Mrs. W. C. Usery, Thomas Allen and Lou Taylor.

Williams-Turner.

Mr. Roscoe Williams, of Orange, N. J., and Miss Junie Turner, daughter of Mr. Ed. Turner, of this county, were married yesterday at 12 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Walker Muir, near Clintonville, Elder Carey Morgan performing the ceremony. Miss Turner is a very handsome and attractive young woman, and is a niece of Mrs. Muir. Mr. Williams is a prominent young railroad man, and we congratulate him on winning such a lovely bride. They left immediately for their home in New Jersey.

NOMINATED.

Roosevelt and Fairbanks to Be Party's Battle-Cry.

The President's Name Presented at 10:55 Thursday Morning by Ex-Gov. Black, of New York, and the Nomination Made Unanimous Amidst Great Enthusiasm.

Chicago, June 23.—The name of Theodore Roosevelt was presented to the convention at 10:55 o'clock by former Gov. Frank Black, of New York. Seconding speeches by Senator Beveridge, Hon. H. S. Cummings, Speaker Cannon and many other notable orators, the speaking continuing for two hours, after which the nomination was made unanimous.

The name of Senator Fairbanks was then presented to the convention by Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, and the seconding speech was made by Chauncey M. Depew, of New York. Mr. Fairbanks was chosen by acclamation with the same enthusiasm with which the president's name was greeted.

WEDNESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. Chicago, June 22.—The republican national convention, the 13th in the party's history, met in the Coliseum at noon Tuesday and organized.

An organization was perfected preparatory to the adoption of a platform and the making of nominations in the succeeding days of the convention. From the quiet, yet unmistakable enthusiasm provoked by Senator Fairbanks' arrival at the Coliseum, his nomination for vice president is but little less assured than the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for president.

The keynote of the campaign of 1904 was sounded by Hon. Elihu Root in his speech as temporary chairman. His address was a review of the accomplishments of the present administration and a defense of republican politics in general. When that had been delivered and the various working committees dispatched to their labors the business of the first day's session was completed.

The crowning feature of the decoration

HON. JOSEPH G. CANNON.

tions is a painting of the late Senator Hanna, which hangs directly over the platform and occupies the most conspicuous position in the Coliseum. The incidents which are destined to live long after the spasmodic demonstrations have been forgotten are Mr. Root's tributes to President McKinley. The temporary chairman spoke of the late president's administration of progress, his gentleness of character and those qualities so beloved by the nation and in that connection said feelingly, "and with McKinley we remember Hanna."

The ovation given Senator Fairbanks as he entered the hall was greater than was received by any of his distinguished colleagues.

The first speech at the convention was by Senator Scott, who informally presented to Chairman Payne a beautiful gavel. It was the gift of the Chicago citizens' committee, which cooperated with the national sub-committee in making arrangements for the convention. Later Graeme Stewart, member of the national committee from Illinois, on behalf of the Chicago committee, presented a similar gavel to Temporary Chairman Root.

In the convention hall Tuesday there was one woman delegate who had the same right to vote that was held by each accredited male delegate. She was Mrs. Charles A. Eldridge, of Colorado Springs, Col., an alternate delegate whose principal was absent. Other women alternate delegates present were Mrs. Owen Lefevre, of Colorado; Mrs. Susan West, of Idaho, and Mrs. Jennie M. Nelson, of Utah, these states having women suffrage.

Shortly before the adjournment for the day Senator Depew was recognized to deliver to the convention an invitation from President Francis and the directors of the Louisiana Purchase exposition to delegates and members of the press to visit the fair at St. Louis before returning to their homes. The invitation was accepted.

Ball Player Killed.

Indiana, Pa., June 22.—During a game of baseball Tuesday between the Johnstown Amateurs and the Indiana Normals, George Thomas, catcher for the Johnstons, was almost instantly killed by being hit over the heart by a foul tip.

Internal Revenue Collections.

Washington, June 22.—The monthly statement of the collections of internal revenue show that for the month of May, 1904, the total collections were $18,570,451, an increase as compared with June, 1903, of $155,596.

Chicago, June 22.—The committee on resolutions met in the green room of the Auditorium Annex hotel immediately after the convention adjourned and organized by electing Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, as chairman. Senator Clark, Wyoming, secretary, and R. G. Proctor, Massachusetts, as clerk. The chair was then authorized to appoint a sub-committee of 13 to prepare the platform.

Upon re-assembling Senator Lodge announced the following sub-committee to formulate the platform: Senator Lodge (Mass.), Senator Gallinger (N. H.), Edward Lauterbach (N. Y.), Representative Dalzell (Pa.), Senator Foraker (O.), Senator Hopkins (Ill.), Senator Clark (Wyo.), Senator Nelson (Minn.), Senator Hansbrough (N. D.), Senator Hepburn (Iowa), John W. Blythe (Ia.), Senator Beveridge (Ind.), and Frank H. Stort (Cal.).

Chicago, June 23.—Visitors were not so early about the convention hall greatest executive body in America, "with a grip so strong, a mind so clear and a heart so sound that he would wield the gavel in that body for many years to come."

The scene that followed was inspiring: flags waved, hats were thrown into the air, delegates jumped to their feet and then to chairs, shouting wildly, loudly and continuously. Until the applause subsided Mr. Cannon stood, awkwardly facing his audience. In contrast with this was his appearance after he had made himself heard and his magnetism felt.

Speaker Cannon's oratory was decidedly to the liking of the convention. He established cordial relations even before he had uttered a word. He stood silent for a moment on a tongue-like projection in the center of the platform. His face fascinated. It expressed abundant humor, strangely blended with virile pugnacity. He

Wednesday, but when Mr. Root called the convention to order shortly after noon the Coliseum presented a more inspiring appearance than on the preceding day. The galleries were for the first time crowded, and the large number of ladies present were especially noticeable.

The announcement of the permanent organization for the convention started the continuous demonstration which followed the introduction of Mr.

was pausing to think how to begin. His thought were pictured on his face. They were pleasant; they were inspiring.

From the standpoint of political importance the adoption of the party platform was the event of the day. It contained declarations of party policy that are to form the basis of much of the oratory in the coming campaign.

The report of the committee on rules accredited two delegates to Ha-

Cannon as permanent chairman. He was escorted to the platform by a committee consisting of Hon. John D. Long, Senator Cullom and Representative Burton, of Ohio. The temporary and permanent chairman met in the center of the stage, where they clasped hands in a cordial greeting. At this moment the applause was deafening, the convention rising to its feet. Still clasping his hand, Mr. Root led Mr. Cannon to the edge of the platform and introduced him to the convention as the man who presided over the will. Senator Foraker offered an amendment increasing the number to six delegates. The opposition came from supporters of a movement to limit the representation of territories and other voteless districts. It was disposed of through an amendment to the rules offered by Representative Bingham, chairman of the committee. He proposed that the representation hereafter should be two delegates from Hawaii, but that the six delegates already seated should not be disturbed. It carried 497 to 490.

President of San Domingo.

Washington, June 22.—Consul General Maxwell, in a cablegram from San Domingo, informs the state department that Morales was elected president by congress and Caceres vice president, and that the inauguration took place Sunday.

Presented to the President.

Washington, June 22.—Cardinal Sattoli was presented to the president Tuesday. He presented to Roosevelt a felicitous address in which he referred in a most kindly way to the United States and its people.

Populist National Convention.

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—Arrangements are complete for the national convention of the populist party, which will meet at the State Arsenal in this city July 4. Mayor Devereux and Col. Feltz will deliver addresses of welcome.

Again at His Desk.

Washington, June 22.—After an absence of three weeks, of which two weeks were spent in the Yellowstone National park, William Loeb, secretary to the president, was again at his desk in the white house Tuesday

TO BE INVESTIGATED.

The Gen. Slocum Horror Near New York.

A Commission Has Been Appointed by the Government—More Than 700 Victims of the Disaster Have Been Recovered.

New York, June 21.—The list of those who perished on the General Slocum is growing at an alarming rate. Bodies came to the surface Monday off the shores of North Brother island singly and in groups of two's and three's until at 1 a. m. Tuesday 102 additional had been recovered. The number of unidentified bodies is 125. Every passing steamer seemed to churn up the water to such a degree that with its wash one or more bodies would be swept into the beach. Between the hours of 3 and 6 in the afternoon 45 bodies, some of them badly mutilated, were taken ashore by the searching parties.

This brings the total number of bodies recovered up to 734, and yet there are something like 300 persons unaccounted for.

A number of these are among the unidentified at the morgue and over on North Brother island, and the "unrecognizable" that have been buried in the Lutheran cemetery on Long island.

The coroner's inquiry into the disaster was begun Monday. Thousands of persons gathered in and around the armory in the borough of the Bronx, where the inquest was held. Among those examined were Frank A. Barnaby, president of the Knickerbocker Steamboat Co.; James H. Atkinson, the secretary of the company; Mate Flanagan, of the Slocum, and several members of the crew.

Washington, June 22.—A commission consisting of Lawrence O. Murray, assistant secretary of commerce and labor; Maj. Gen. John M. Wilson, U. S. A., retired; Commander Cameron McR. Winslow, U. S. N., Herbert Knox Smith, deputy commissioner of corporations in the department of commerce and labor, and George Uhler, supervising inspector general of the steamboat inspection service, has been appointed to investigate the disaster to the General Slocum near Hell Gate in the East river, where more than 800 lives were lost. The commission will report at once to Secretary Cortelyou. The assignment of Gen. Wilson and Commander Winslow to duty on the commission was made by the president at the request of Secretary Cortelyou. The commission's investigation will be entirely independent of the investigation shortly to be made by the local board of steamboat inspection under the provisions of Section 4,450 of the revised statutes which compels an inquiry to be made in such cases.

The investigation made by the local board of inspectors is enjoined on the board by the statute and takes place without any order from the secretary. It is directed solely at the matter of revocation of the license of the vessel's officers for incompetency or other good causes. The investigation to be made by the commission appointed Tuesday will be much broader.

BIG BATTLE IMMINENT.

It Will Take Place in the Northern Part of the Peninsula.

St. Petersburg, June 23.—The imminence of a battle in the northern part of the Liao Tung peninsula is admitted by the war office and is indicated succinctly in Wednesday's dispatches from the press correspondents at Liao Yang, Kaiping and other points on the railroad.

The week of skirmishing around Siu Yen retarded Gen. Kuroki's operations, permitting Gen. Stakelberg to reach Kaiping, the rear guard slowly falling back on Senchuen before the Japanese advance.

Meanwhile large forces are hurrying south from Liao Yang to check both Gen. Oku and Gen. Kuroki.

It is believed here that Gen. Kuropatkin's object is to prevent the junction of the Japanese armies. On the other hand, the aim of the Japanese apparently is to drive the Russians out of the Liao Tung peninsula preparatory to a march on Siao Yang. The approach of the rainy season will more than likely precipitate matters.

PLATFORM ADOPTED.

It Gives a Review of the Work of the Party.

Maintenance of Principles is Urged—Rates of Duty Should be Re-adjusted Only When Conditions Warrant It.

Chicago, June 23.—The committee on resolutions reported the following platform to the republican national convention Wednesday:

Fifty years ago the republican party came into existence dedicated, among other purposes, to the great task of restoring the extension of human slavery. In 1861 it elected its first president. During the 44 years which have elapsed since the election of Lincoln, the republican party has held complete control of the government. For 18 more of the 44 years it has held partial control through the possession of one or two branches of the government, while the democratic party during the same period has had complete control for only two years.

This long tenure of power by the republican party is not due to chance. It is a demonstration that the republican party has commanded the confidence of the American people for nearly two generations to a degree never equaled in our history, and has displayed a high capacity for rule and government which has been made even more conspicuous by the incapacity and infirmity of purpose shown by its opponents.

The republican party entered upon its present period of complete supremacy in 1861. We have every right to congratulate ourselves upon the work since then accomplished, for it has added lustre even to the traditions of the party which carried the government through the storms of civil war.

We then found the country, after four years of democratic rule, in evil plight, oppressed with misfortune and doubt of the future. Public credit had been lowered, the revenues were declining, the debt was growing, the administration's attitude toward Spain was feeble and mortifying, the standard of values was threatened and uncertain, labor was unemployed, business was sunk in depression, and the hope was faint and confidence was gone.

We met these unhappy conditions vigorously, effectively and at once.

We replaced a democratic tariff law based on free trade principles and garnished with sectional and class interests, with a consistent protective tariff, and industry, freed from oppression and stimulated by the encouragement of wise laws, has expanded to a degree never before known, has conquered new markets, and has created a volume of exports which has surpassed imagination.

Under the Dingley tariff labor has been fully employed, wages have risen, and all industries have revived and prospered. We firmly established the gold standard, which was then menaced with destruction. Confidence returned to business, and with confidence an unexampled prosperity.

For deficient revenues, supplemented by improvident issues of bonds, we gave the country an income tax which produced a large surplus and which enabled us only four years after the Spanish war had closed, to remove $100,000,000 of annual war taxes, reduce the public debt and lower the interest charges of the government.

The public credit, which had been so lowered that in time of peace a democratic administration made large loans at extravagant rates of interest, in order to pay current expenditures, rose under republican administration to its highest point, and enabled us to borrow at 2 per cent, even in time of war.

We refused to yield longer to the miseries of Cuba. We fought a quick and victorious war with Spain. We set Cuba free, gave the island peace and order, and then gave it to the Cuban people, with order restored, with ample revenues, with education and public health established, free from debt and connected with the United States by wise provisions for our mutual interests.

We have organized the government of Porto Rico, and its people now enjoy peace, freedom, order and prosperity.

In the Philippines we have suppressed insurrection, established order and given to life and property a security never known there before. We have organized civil government, made it effective and strong in administration, and have conferred upon the people of those islands the largest civil liberty they have ever enjoyed.

By our possession of the Philippines we were enabled to take prompt and effective action in the relief of the legations at Peking, and a decisive part in preventing the partition and preserving the integrity of China.

The possession of a route for an isthmian canal, so long the dream of American statesmanship, is now an accomplished fact. The great work of connecting the Pacific and Atlantic by a canal is at last begun, and it is due to the republican party.

We have passed laws which will bring the arid lands of the United States within the area of cultivation.

We have reorganized the army and placed it in the highest state of efficiency.

We have passed laws for the improvement and support of the militia.

We have pushed forward the building of the army, the defense and protection of our honor and the national flag.

Our administration of the great departments of the government has been honest and efficient and wherever wrongdoing has been discovered the republicans have not hesitated to prosecute the evil and bring offenders to justice without regard to party or political ties.

Laws enacted by the republican party, which the democratic party failed to enforce, and which were intended for the protection of the public against unjust discrimination or the illegal encroachment of vast aggregations of capital, have been fearlessly enforced by a republican president and his cabinet, and reasonable publicity has been given to the operations of great corporations, and providing additional remedies for the prevention of discrimination in freight rates have been passed by a republican congress.

In this record of achievement during the past eight years may be read the pledges which the republican party has fulfilled. We promise to continue those policies, and we declare our constant adherence to the following principles:

Protection which guards and develops our industries is a cardinal policy of the republican party. The measures of protection should always be based upon the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad. We insist upon the maintenance of the principle of protection, and therefore, rates of duty should be re-adjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration; but this work can be safely committed to any other hands than those of the republican party.

To intrust it to the democratic party is to invite disaster. Whether, as in 1892, the democratic party declares the protective tariff unconstitutional, or whether it demands tariff reform or tariff revision, its real object is always the destruction of the protective system.

However specious the name, the purpose is ever the same. A democratic tariff has always been followed by business adversity; a republican tariff by business prosperity. To a republican congress and a republican president the great question can be safely entrusted. When the only free trade country among the great nations agitates a protest to protection, the chief protective country should not falter in maintaining it.

We have extended widely our foreign markets, and we believe in the adoption of all practicable methods for their further extension, including commercial reciprocity wherever reciprocal arrangements can be effected consistent with the principles of protection and without injury to American agriculture, American labor or any American industry.

We believe it to be the duty of the republican party to uphold the gold standard, and the integrity and value of our national currency. The maintenance of the gold standard, established by the republican party, can not safely be committed to the democratic party, which has never given any proof since that time of belief in its fidelity to it.

While every other industry has prospered under the fostering and protective legislation, American shipping engaged in foreign trade in competition with the low cost of construction, low rates and heavy subsidies of foreign governments, has not for many years received from the government of the United States adequate encouragement of any kind. We, therefore, favor legislation which will encourage and build up the American merchant marine, and we cordially approve the legislation of the last congress, which created the merchant marine commission to investigate and report upon this subject.

A navy powerful enough to defend the United States against any attack, to uphold the Monroe doctrine, and watch over our commerce is essential to the safety and welfare of the American people. To maintain such a navy is the fixed policy of the republican party. We cordially approve the attitude of President Roosevelt and congress in regard to the exclusion of Chinese labor and promise a continuance of the republican policy in this direction.

The civil service law was placed on the statute books by the republican party, which has always sustained it, and we renew our former declarations that it shall be thorough and honestly enforced.

We are always mindful of the country's debt to the soldiers and sailors of the United States, and we believe in making ample provision for them, and in the liberal administration of the pension laws.

We favor the peaceful settlement of international differences by arbitration. We commend the vigorous efforts made by the administration to protect American citizens in foreign lands, and pledge ourselves to insist upon the just and equal protection of our citizens abroad. It is the unquestioned duty of the government to procure for all our citizens, without distinction, the rights of travel and sojourn in friendly countries, and we declare ourselves in favor of all proper efforts tending to that end.

QUEER ROYAL VISITOR

ENGLAND ENTERTAINS A DUSKY AFRICAN MONARCH.

The Alake of Abeokuta Is an Interesting Personage from the West Coast—Has Proven Himself a Progressive Ruler.

England is called upon to entertain many queer guests because of the wide range of her colonial possessions and subjects, but none have been more interesting than the Alake of Abeokuta, and his wives, who recently visited King Edward.

The territory of which the alake is the principal ruling chief is comprised within the Protectorate of Lagos, on the west coast of Africa. It is spoken of as the province of Abeokuta, or as the territory of the Egbas, the most enterprising, active and energetic division of the Yoruba race. In number they exceed a quarter of a million. The capital of the province is the town of Abeokuta, which is situated on the river Ogun, some 60 miles from Lagos by railway. The alake's capital has thus both water and rail communication with the port of Lagos. A large number of the 60,000 or 70,000 people that live in Abeokuta are engaged in trade.

The alake and his people possess some 6,000 or 8,000 square miles of the most fertile and productive soil in West Africa. From several of the higher points on the undulating districts traversed by the railway, scores of square miles of forest, composed chiefly of palm trees, may be seen stretching away to the horizon on each side. This palm tree is indigenous, and flourishes here in splendid luxuriance, yielding a perennial never-failing crop, from which the palm kernel and palm oil of commerce are obtained through the toil and industry of the natives.

The whole of this rich and valuable country belongs exclusively to the alake and his people. The king's government recognizes the absolute proprietary rights to the soil of the native owners, and the laws and customs of Egbas prohibit the alienation of land. The province possesses no minerals, unless, perhaps, some apparently unknown deposits of lignite. No gold-bearing stratum has been proved to exist. It is not one of the great timber-producing districts. The farmers of Abeokuta are, however, both enterprising and intelligent, and they have entered into the cultivation of cotton with remarkable spirit, so that at present there is good reason to expect that this industry will become one of great importance in this province.

The alake came to England to do homage to his royal protector, whom he claims as his king and sovereign. The king's protection is to the alake and his people no empty form. Up to only a few years ago the town of Abeokuta was surrounded by the works of defence, the making and the maintenance of which must have cost much in time and labor. The wealth of the district was an irresistible temptation to strong neighbors, such as Dahomey, for example, which endeavored to overcome Abeokuta. The Egbas showed that they could fight well. But what the ultimate issue would have been but for European intervention, it is impossible to say.

The alake is a man of middle age, of strictly temperate habits, strong in mind and body. He has completely set aside the usage of his country, which required that a great and crowned chief should not proceed beyond the precincts of his own courtyard. He visits all parts of his province to direct and encourage the making of roads, the extension and improvements of agriculture, and to see personally to matters of administration. He has a duly appointed council, in which the leading men of the Egbas have seats. Of this council the alake himself is the president and moving spirit.

The alake is a reformer, and therefore he has many difficulties to face among a people so very conservative as the Yorubas. Naturally some of his chiefs and people think he goes too fast; whilst others, especially the younger men, think he proceeds too slowly. His devotion to his country and people are, however, so apparent to all, that this gives him great power, combined with his superior intelligence and strength of purpose. Recently the alake has had the finances of his province put on a sound basis. Regular estimates of revenue and expenditure have been prepared and passed by his council, and have been approved by the secretary of state.

Perished in a Fire. Quincy, Ill., June 23.—In a fire in the Tremont house Elizabeth Welch, principal of the Jefferson school, met death by suffocation and her sister, Mary Welch, principal of the Jackson school, was seriously, if not fatally, burned.

Successor to Prof. Dabney. Knoxville, Tenn., June 23.—Trustees of the University of Tennessee have decided upon J. H. Kirkland, chancellor of Vanderbilt university, to succeed Dr. Charles W. Dabney, and are awaiting his answer.

British Comment. London, June 23.—The Times, the only London morning paper which prints an editorial on the platform adopted by the republican national convention, says that the platform bears the stamp of the individuality of President Roosevelt.

Secretary Cortelyou in Chicago. Chicago, June 23.—Secretary Cortelyou arrived in Chicago Wednesday and conferred with republican leaders at the Chicago club. He joyfully announced that he had come to Chicago upon important public business.

THE ALAKE OF ABEOKUTA AND HIS WIVES.

LONG ISLAND.

It is quite probable that Long Island presents more exceptional attractions than any other section of the entire country. It attracts the man who is looking for an investment, a farm, a residence or a summer home, and it is a perfect paradise to those who can spend their vacations by the briny deep.

The climatic peculiarities of the island fit it especially for the raising of vegetables, fruits and flowers, chickens, pigeons and game birds.

The temperature in the summer running from 10 to 15 degrees cooler than the city, or any other section within reasonable distance and in winter, never less than 10 degrees warmer than the same territory. The island trends almost east and west and therefore lies directly across the path of the prevailing summer winds, which come from the south and bring with them the invigorating and coolness of ocean winds. Its very place in columns giving health statistics of all sections is primarily due to the fact that even in its fertile central section it is everywhere perfectly underdrained by glacial drift and gravel.

Surrounded as it is on three sides by great bodies of water, the north, east and south winds reach it absolutely without chance of contamination—even its western end is isolated by the great broadening of New York Harbor.

Its water supply is notably fine. Springs, brooks and even lakes have their source in the higher parts of the island, proving conclusively the theory of many geologists that its source of supply is situated high up in the north of Vermont, and that under Long Island flow great subterranean streams similar to those of Yucatan, Mexico; as further proof of this, there are wonderful flowing wells on various parts of the island many of which have records extending over 35 years and without diminution in the quantity.

Its north shore slopes down from the highest points of Long Island's backbone (as the high range of hills is called) to the beautiful bays and harbors extending the full length of the Sound shore. These slopes are covered with a most thrifty growth of oak, hickory, chestnut, locust, walnut and other deciduous trees and shrubs to the very edge of Long Island Sound.

The central section is fertile farm land with splendid crop records and capable of producing handsome returns on the investment.

Its south shore, in part lying on that inland sea called the Great South Bay, and in part on the Atlantic Ocean, has attractions of tree growth including pine.

The settlements, many of them established 250 years ago, are thoroughly progressive towns and villages, and the school system compares most favorably with that of our great cities in that from the kindergarten to the high school the departments are most proficiently handled.

All portions of the island are extremely well cared for by transportation facilities. The Long Island railroad system with branches to every section has a train schedule of over 800 trains daily. Many trolley systems are already in operation and others in the course of construction.

Steam boat lines connect with Block Island and the New England coast. Long Island points fifty miles away from Metropolitan interests are readily accessible, and as quickly reached as the towns and near-by suburbs of the Empire City.

The price for land, either in acreage or house lots, is exceedingly reasonable, in comparison with other territories.

Farms with dwellings and other buildings in excellent condition are available for fruit growing, a business with great possibilities and phenomenal returns. Immense tracts present exceptionally good facilities for cranberry, strawberry and other small fruit culture which are still undeveloped, and Long Island berries command the best market prices. Like its asparagus, cauliflower, Blue Point oysters and Little Neck clams, the island's newer productions are rapidly taking front rank. Its duck, chicken and pigeon farms are money makers hard to beat.

Its game and fish preserves are known to all true sportsmen who take their recreation, and gain healthful rest with either the rod or gun.

Its waters stand high in the estimation of those who love to be afloat. The canoeist cannot but enjoy the wonderfully interesting voyage through Rockaway Bay, Great South Bay, Moriches Bay, Peconic and Gardiners Bay a paddle around Plum Island or through the Gut skimming along the high bluffs at the east end of the sound shore, weaving in and out through the harbors and bays at Port Jefferson, Smithtown, Huntington, Cold Spring, Oyster Bay, Hempstead Harbor, Manhasset, Little Neck and Flushing.

In Long Island waters are first tried the great yachts selected to defend the cup, the favorite cruising ground for all sailors from the man with the little cat boat to the owner of the palatial steam yacht—the rendezvous of the members of America's great yacht clubs.

The golf links and tennis courts of the island are noted abroad as well as in the United States, and on Long Island links are annually played many championship matches.

Its bathing attractions are unlimited; for the lover of still salt water bathing the opportunities are many indeed. To those who prefer invigorating wrestles that the surf of old ocean brings, from Coney Island to Long Beach, the length of Fire Island and from Good Ground to Montauk Point the places are many from which to choose.

K. P. A. Outing.

The annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association took place at the Louisville Hotel Monday afternoon, June 13, at 2 o'clock. The principal business before the meeting was the reading of the President's address, election of officers, the consideration of a motion for the appointment of a committee to revise the constitution and by-laws of the association and the discussion of foreign advertising rates.

W. I. Adams was appointed to succeed J. H. Westover, resigned as the Kentucky representative to the National Editorial Association.

Louis Landram, the well-known editor of the Lancaster Record, was elected to succeed Paul M. Moore and E. A. Gullion, of the Newcastle Local, was elected vice president. R. E. Morningstar was again elected secretary. The new executive committee will be appointed by the incoming president in a few days after the adjournment of the association.

After a very interesting day in Louisville, the party consisting of about two hundred, left on a special train of four Pullman sleepers over the Henderson Route and L. & N. for the St. Louis Fair, arriving at that place Tuesday morning. The party was met at the Union Station by several representatives of the Inland Type Foundry who escorted the crowd to the famous Jefferson Hotel where they were their guests for breakfast.

At 2 o'clock the party was entertained at the Woman's Magazine Building with a luncheon, after which the party separated to select their permanent stopping places. On Tuesday night the party was given a reception at the Kentucky Building.

Wednesday, Kentucky Day, was devoted to sight seeing and on Wednesday night the New Kentucky Home was again the scene of a delightful reception tendered by the Kentucky Club, of St. Louis, in honor of Governor Beckham and the Kentucky Press. Below we give the closing part of the Governor's eloquent address: "As we stand here surrounded by the miraculous achievements of your understanding we are profoundly impressed with the signal victory of American genius, which this event typifies. With only a hundred years behind you, from the time when the savages of an alien race were in the useless possession of this territory, down to the present era, you have built faster and better than ever before, and now you have reared in a night as it were, this matchless carnival city, which seems to be almost the culmination of man's attainment and triumph. Countries whose civilization dates back for thousands of years cannot equal this. You deserve great credit for the launching of this gigantic exhibition."

The Kentuckians are all very proud of the stately structure known as the New Kentucky Home, it being without a doubt the prettiest state building on the grounds, even surpassing Missouri's handsome home.

The walls of the building were decorated with handsome oil paintings, among which was most prominent several masterpieces by Mrs. Hattie Hutchcraft Hill, Charles Shea, also of this city, had on display in a prominent place a marble bust of the late C. Alexander, Sr. Pictures of well-known Bourbon horses adorned the walls, including Rhythmic, Jay Bird and others.

The White Burley Tobacco display in the Agricultural Palace certainly did credit to old Bourbon, taking all the premiums on that grade of tobacco. Dan Peed has charge of this display and received nearly all the premiums. Mr. Peed deserves great credit for his efforts in this exhibit as no doubt Bourbon would have been without representation only for this gentleman.

On Thursday the party in a body, "did the Pike," every attraction extending courtesies except one. The Pike is about one mile in length and a better lot of attractions could hardly be gotten together to surpass those on exhibition. Anyone visiting the Fair should not fail to see the following attractions, all of which extended courtesies to our crowd: The Tyrolean Alps, costing $750,000; Irish Village, Over and Under the Sea, Hagenbeck's, Japanese Village, Old St. Louis, Siberian Railroad, Chinese Village, Esquimaux Village, Cliff Dwellers, Cairo, Jerusalem and Asia; the very best attractions are the Galveston Flood, Battle Abbey, New York to the North Pole, Over and Under the Sea, Boer War, and Wild West Show. The above attractions are estimated to have cost $5,000,000.

The most beautiful sight is the electrical display, to be seen properly you must take a ride on the Lagoon from which you can see all the principal buildings brilliantly illuminated.

Festival Hall, The Cascades, and the Terrace of States are the most prominent among the dazzling sights to be seen after dark from this beautiful waterway.

The area of the Fair is 1,240 acres; area under roof 128 acres; length, 1 1/4 miles; width, 1 mile; cost of Exposition $50,000,000. The Palace of Agriculture is the largest building on the grounds being 500 by 1,600 feet. There is 35 miles of asphalt and gravel roadways.

To describe the exhibits and the various buildings would be an endless task. From our observation of the Fair, we think it surpasses the Chicago Fair, covering three times as much ground.

The Fair is about completed, and in three weeks it will be in "apple pie order." The best time to visit the Exposition will be about the first of September.

Among the ex-Parisians we met in St. Louis was Domingo Garcia who is spending several months in that city and from there he will go to his home in Porto Rico. We also met Mr. Fred Gorham who has for three years been connected with the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and now has charge of half the circulation department. Fred is a handsome young man and is married, being the proud father of a handsome boy. Mr. Gorham says he will be president of the concern some day. Carey Morgan, Jr., was another Parisian whom we met and he was very glad to see his old friends. Mr. Morgan is one of the Jefferson Guards and is well informed about the different points of interest about the grounds and took great pleasure in directing his country cousins about how to get in and out the gates and showing us to the most interesting sights.

On Saturday the Kentucky crowd began to separate and the most of them left for home. It was suggested that the next outing be held in February and take in the Mardi Gras and a side trip to Cuba. This would make an elegant trip and is favored by nearly all the press. S. C.

We are authorized to announce Geo. W. Bowen as a candidate for Jailer of Bourbon County, subject to the action of the Democratic party, with James A. Gibson as Deputy.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE.

We are authorized to announce Denis Dutton as a candidate for Judge of Bourbon county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

COUNTY ATTORNEY.

We are authorized to announce Charles A. McMillan as a candidate for County Attorney of Bourbon county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce T. E. Moore, Jr., as a candidate for County Attorney of Bourbon county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

STATE SENATOR.

We are authorized to announce Col. H. P. Thomson as a candidate for State Senator from the 28th district composed of the counties of Bourbon, Clark and Montgomery, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

In this issue Col. H. P. Thomson announces his candidacy for Senator from this, the 28th Senatorial District, consisting of Montgomery, Bourbon and Clark counties. His candidacy is subject to the action of the Democratic party in primary or convention as the governing authority may determine. He is a native of Clark county, being a member of one of her oldest families. He was for eight or ten years Chairman of the Democratic County Committee of Clark, and also served about the same length of time on the State Central Committee. Col. Thomson is a successful farmer and in many ways has shown his enterprise in promoting various interests among the farmers. He is in every way qualified and fitted for this office.

THERE is no doubt that the tariff question in its various phases will be prominent in the platforms of both parties and in the fall campaign. The Republicans will exclaim: "We stand pat! But when we think the tariff needs revision we'll revise it." The Democrats will retort that a party which has maintained an unjust law is not worthy to be trusted to amend it in the interests of justice. Senator Aldrich, the Senate leader of finance was greatly annoyed by Charles Schwab's letter demonstrating that steel rails sold to Americans for $28 a ton were, under the tariff, delivered in England for $19 a ton, a clear robbery of the American consumer of fifty per cent. Aldrich fumed, perspired, and even denied, but made no effort whatever to disprove the assertion. This revelation will enter the campaign as well as the potency of the tariff as a trust breeder.

Looks Like Business.

The contractors to build the new street were in town yesterday. City Attorney Moore drew up the contract and it was signed by the contracting parties. Engineer Horne, of Lexington, said the work would begin in a few days, and it would take them about ninety days to complete it. They are laying new curbing now, beginning at the bridge, so it will be uniform all the way to Tenth street.

To Remodel The Depot.

We are informed by Superintendent Anderson that work will begin Monday morning on remodeling the passenger depot, and when completed it will be a new depot. Another room will be added for colored people and they will be compelled to occupy it; the ticket office will be enlarged and new baggage room added; a concrete pavement put around the entire building, and the building raised and moved back farther from the track.

This is something the News has been agitating for some time and we are glad that our efforts to secure accommodations that our people deserve have been awarded.

Another Terrible Dynamite Explosion.

Premature dynamite explosions are very common in this community, for in the past two years there have been six, causing six deaths and about twenty persons being injured. On Tuesday afternoon, while George Wilson, foreman of the construction force of the East Tennessee Telephone Company, was carefully handling a stick of dynamite that he was about to place in a hole to make a blast, got the wires attached to the cap in the cartridge crossed with the battery, causing an explosion which meant his instant death. The accident happened while the men were engaged in constructing a line out of this city to Riddles Mills, near Berry Bedford's, Jr. Wilson's side and head were badly mutilated and one of his hands and part of the arm could not be found. J. W. Shropshire, who was near Mr. Wilson at the time, says it was so unexpected and quick that he could not give an accurate account of what took place. He had only left the hole at which Mr. Wilson was at work a few minutes before the accident occurred, and had gone about 40 feet away when Wilson took a stick of dynamite and started to the hole to blast out a rock at the bottom. The only way he can account for it is as we have stated above.

No one else was hurt, and Mr. Wilson always did this dangerous part of the work so as to not put any of the men under him in any danger of being hurt. This one thing shows that this young man was above the average, for he could have ordered any of the men under him to perform this work, but no, he would not endanger their lives and did it himself.

He was about 25 years of age, and a son of Mr. A. J. Wilson, Lexington. His remains were taken to his home in Lexington on Tuesday night, and his funeral held Wednesday afternoon.

SPECIAL.—Attend Harry Simon's Special Clearing Sale, June 28 to 30.

WALL PAPER.—I have just received one of the handsomest lines of Wall Paper ever brought to our city. Call and see for yourself. First-class hanger to put it on. GEO. W. DAVIS.

Judge Cantrill's Condition.

We are glad to report that the condition of Judge James E. Cantrill, who sustained a paralytic stroke at Owenton, Sunday night, is some better, and it is not thought to be as serious as at first reported. The left leg and arm are affected. His speech is in no way impaired. He is cheerful and feels no uneasiness as to the results. His wife and sons, Cecil and Campbell Cantrill are with him.

The latest from him is that he is getting along reasonably well and hopes to be able to return to his home at Georgetown within the next few days.

NOTICE.—Dr. Bowen, the optician, will be at A. J. Winters & Co.'s on June 30th. Examination free.

SHOES AND SLIPPERS.—Special Sale of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Shoes and Slippers at Twin Bros.

Found In Rubbish Pile.

In a pile of old rubbish that was being removed from the Deposit Bank, yesterday, a book was picked up and found to contain the signatures of the institution. Out of forty-two there are only four of them living to-day, viz: James T. Davis and John G. Craddock, of Paris; W. K. Griffith, of Harrison county, and B. F. Williams, of Lexington. Some of the statements of the condition of the bank at that time, 1854, were found in the book, showing its deposits to be in some instances over $300,000. There were only two banks in Paris at this time, the Northern and Deposit. In back of the book were a number of old State Bank notes, ranging from $1 up to $20, several of them being collectable at this date.

SMOOTH-O.—Ask C. P. Cook for Smooth-O.

Closing Out Tobacco Deals.

The Continental Tobacco Company has had representatives here for the past week closing out the big deals made here with our dealers. Mr. Dan Peed on yesterday shipped the last of 450,000 pounds purchased from him at 14 cents. The Continental people in all bought over 1,000,000 pounds of tobacco from Paris dealers at from 14 to 16 cents. It has about all been shipped and paid for. The dealers are high in their praise of the Continental people, complimenting their fairness in every transaction.

UMBRELLAS.—200 "Rainproofed" Silk Gloria Umbrellas, 98c each, worth $1.50 and $1.75. W. ED. TUCKER.

Viciously Assaulted.

Pierce Paton, our popular Deputy County Clerk, has a fine fox terrier dog and his name is "Huck O'Brien." He went out visiting Wednesday night, and from all appearances, when he returned home Thursday morning had been most viciously assaulted. Pierce first thought a freight train had run over him, but after careful examination by the surgeons summoned was found to be literally "chewed" to pieces. Dr. Frank Fithian's big "Mike" is suspected of the crime and Pierce has caused a warrant to be issued for his arrest. A posse will be summoned to assist in the arrest of "Mike" as he only weighs about 200 pounds.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term
"a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments,
with the attendant evils of constipation,
loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain."

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child,
when Dr. Boschee's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup;
so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectora-tion easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough-racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 25c; large size 75c. At all druggists.—W. T.

SOME TIME.

Some time, when o'er this life the shades
of death are falling,
When suns and stars are never more to shine,
When from the murky mists we hear strange voices calling
To Life Eternal and to Love Divine;
It may be in that hour, before the light so glorious Shall flood our souls with radiance untold,
Before there burst to view the realms of
the victorious,
The pearly streets and gates of shining gold—
That to our wondering eyes, from which the scales are lifted,
A vision of the life that's past may come;
And we may see the rocks on which our souls had drifted,
If God's kind care had failed to draw us home.

Then with our souls uplifted in thank-giving
To Him Whose love this earthly life has blessed,
I think that we shall cry: "O Father, so
forgiving,
Thy love was perfect, and Thy will was best."

Her Restoration

By C. WETHERELL
(ORIGINAL)

WHATEVER may have been the original indisposition of Mrs.
Van Dorp Westerfield, it was forgotten among the host of auxiliary ailments, contributed by each new physician's diagnosis of her case. There was not a medical man for miles around who had not tried to cure Mrs. Westerfield. When young Dr. Jansen moved into the neighborhood, this elegant invalid had enjoyed ten years of unremitting but futile medical attention.

Nelly Rose informed her of the advent of the new practitioner. Nelly was the niece of Mrs. Westerfield, and the elder lady was in the habit of complaining that her duty to her health prevented her from doing more for her only sister's child. Nelly had been given a home by Mrs. Dean, a hard-worked sister of her father's, who took in boarders and lodgers to support her own large family. Mrs. Van Dorp West-erfield's only contribution to her niece's support was her cast-off garments, or,
at least, such of them as her maid Henrietta did not care to claim. In these old clothes Nelly looked so well that Mrs. Van Dorp Westerfield considered that she had done well by her niece.

It is only just to say that Mr. Van Dorp Westerfield did not approve of the plan. He would have been happy to have a bright young face in his home, but his wife ruled him through her frailty. The very suggestion that he would like to do something substantial for Nelly had sent Mrs. "Van" into a nervous attack that for two weeks required the attention of two physicians and a trained nurse.

When Mr. Westerfield returned to his beautiful suburban home that evening,
he found his wife pleasantly interested in the advent of the new doctor.

"Nelly tells me that he has studied abroad and has already accomplished some very remarkable cures here. I wish you would make his acquaintance.
Mr. Westerfield, if he could only help poor me! Suppose you stop in his office and have a chat with him. You can then judge whether or not he is likely to be useful to me."

Mr. Westerfield, happening to pass the new doctor's office that evening, dropped in to make the required inquiries. He was a well-built, dark-eyed young man, apparently as well endowed with common sense as with professional knowledge.

He listened attentively to all Mr. Westerfield had to say about the invalid.

"I've heard your niece, Miss Rose, speak of Mrs. Westerfield," Dr. Jansen remarked. "And I am interested in her.
If your wife will follow my directions literally, I think I can cure her. I should not care to undertake the case, unless she was willing to take my advice without protest."

Mr. Westerfield had been so frequently disappointed that he was not inclined to be over sanguine, in regard to his wife's recovery, but there was something particularly inspiring in Dr. Jansen's quiet self-confidence and he leaned forward and said:

"If you can make Mrs. Westerfield a healthy woman, it's worth 25,000 to me.
That will be your fee if you can cure her,
but I am prepared to be disappointed!"
"Very well, Mr. Westerfield, then I must beg to decline the case should Mrs.
Westerfield send for me. My success will depend on your faith and assistance, quite as much as upon hers."

So convincing did Dr. Jansen's argument prove that Mr. Westerfield agreed to indorse all his suggestions. His response to his wife was so favorable that the next day Mrs. Van Dorp Westerfield sent a messenger to request the presence of the young physician at her residence.

It was one of her bad days and the shades were drawn in her rose-lined boudoir, while her maid hurried here and there, now for cologne with which to bathe the aching brow, again for a cooling drink, or a bottle of smelling salts.
When he entered, the physician noticed that the atmosphere was heavy with the scent of flowers that grew in handsome jardinières.

"Ah, doctor, you are kind to come. You see before you a poor invalid whose utmost hope is that you can relieve her hopeless sufferings," sighed the invalid.
Dr. Jansen bowed gravely and seating himself at the side of the couch made a thorough examination of the patient, who kept up a doleful chatter all this time.

When he had satisfied himself of her physical condition, he said:

"You have yet hope of restoration to health if you are willing to undergo a course of modern treatment which has made possible the cure of conditions such as yours."

"Oh, doctor, I fear you will find my case no ordinary one," the patient protested.
Dr. Jansen bowed. "And my cure is no ordinary one. I should not try it with an ordinary patient, for it requires intelligence and accuracy to make it a success."

The lady was pleased with the compliment and vowed that she would faithfully observe his instructions. The air of importance and mystery with which he referred to his new cure, aroused her curiosity.

"I shall prescribe for you a drug with which medical science is not so familiar as it should be. The potency of this remedy is undoubted, but it must be used with the utmost care, or I cannot answer for its results. It has an affinity for oxygen, which the patient must absorb directly from the atmosphere. This oxygen must be taken into the system under certain solar conditions. Do you follow me, madam?"

Mrs. Westerfield beamed. Truly the new cure promised to be an interesting one.

"I shall compound this medicine for you myself, and thus insure exactness.
In the first place, I shall ask you to remove those plants from the room. Do not permit the temperature to exceed 70 degrees in this room. Eventually we shall keep it at 65. Ventilate it every three hours. The medicine must be administered directly before the windows are thrown open. No medicine is to be taken after dusk, although the ventilation of the room must continue until ten o'clock, when you retire to rest with a window open."

The doctor then departed, declaring that he would send the medicine around in an hour.

"Now," said the doctor, a day or two later, "I am about to increase the strength of your medicine, and, to obtain satisfactory results, we must have outdoor treatment. Mrs. Westerfield, you must substitute for the short walks which I have been prescribing short rides on a bicycle, or some similar outdoor exercise."

Mrs. Westerfield protested that she was too fragile for such exertion, but the doctor referred to the strengthening medicine which would accompany the rides and she consented to try the experiment. Dr. Jansen selected the bicycle and engaged an instructor. At the end of a week Mrs. Westerfield could ride.

It was an amusing sight to behold her hastily swallowing a teaspoonful of the clear liquid prescribed for her, and then rushing to the door, mounting her wheel and spinning away that the neutralizing oxygen might do its work in warding off the injurious effects which the doctor said were sure to follow lack of subsequent open air exercise.

Gradually the invalid grew stronger.
She became interested in bicycling and persuaded her husband to buy a wheel that he might sometimes be her companion. Nelly Rose, who had long been a wheel-woman, was engaged to be her companion on ordinary occasions.

At the end of six months Mrs. Westerfield was a changed woman. She had almost forgotten that she had ever been an invalid. Freely she acknowledged herself cured and never failed to praise
the wonderful skill and subtle drugs employed by Dr. Jansen. Mr. Van Dorp Westerfield bestowed the $25,000 on the young medical man with a grateful speech. Instead of a peevish, invalid wife, medical science had given him a cheerful, robust companion.

The young doctor's practice was growing, his prospects looked bright, and he had a capital of $25,000. That evening, after dinner, he waited to see Nelly Rose in the parlor of Mrs. Dean's boarding house. His acquaintance with the young lady had begun by his being a table boarder there.

"Miss Nelly," said he, with glowing eyes, "your aunt, Mrs. Van Dorp Westerfield, is cured. In effecting that cure I have suffered an injury of the heart that is irreparable unless you will be my wife. Your uncle's fee was a generous one, too generous unless I can share it with you."

"I wonder," Nelly cried, laughing, "but of course you won't tell me the secret of that wonderful cure, although I've had some suspicions."

"Yes, I will," the young man declared, roguishly. "I'll tell you the day you become my wife."

And, with true feminine curiosity, Nelly propounded the question again as they drove home from church after a pretty church wedding, which Mrs. Van Dorp Westerfield insisted on bestowing upon her niece, together with a full outfit of bridal finery.

"Oh," the newly-made husband replied, gleefully, "it was sugar and water, reinforced by fresh air and the stimulating outdoor exercise."

In the present stage of progress in modern educational methods the statement that hearty and intelligent cooperation and sympathy between parents and teachers is essential to the best results in school work should be the most obvious and commonplace truism. Many parents will not take the trouble nor devote the time necessary to the proper training of the young, and unfortunately too few teachers are sufficiently interested in their work as a profession to insist upon that measure of parental cooperation which is so essential.

ment of grinding stations in various leaders in adding it to the list of western manufactured products.

THRO' KENTUCKY.

Thro' the grand state of Kentucky,
Where the "Old Home" got its name,
Where the fields are overflowing
With the yellow ripening grain.

Here tobacco plants are growing,
In the fields not sown with corn,
Tobacco plants—big as cactus—
Just as sure as you are born.

Yes, they're large as good-sized cactus,
Larger in our home-like view,
But it's of a fine grade as
Is that old "Kentucky Dew."

Here all people reap a harvest,
Money in bank from year to year,
All the green calamity howlers
Lose their jobs when they land here.

Here the "dry" ways are the highways,
Built high and dry from rains and floods,
Here the "good roads delegation,"
Swear the roads are suitably good.

But of pikes and highways finest,
There's a "road" that suits my tastes;
Tis the line of Solid Comfort,
And the trains let no time waste.

From Kentucky to St. Louis, Operates this road of class,
Across the famous old "Green River"
On its roadbed smooth as glass.

Would you know the road I speak of?
Listen then to my advice,
For you'll need it in your business,
On your trip to Paradise.

In your travels to St. Louis—
Hurry; beat them under the wire,
"Get the 'Henderson Route' habit!"
'Tis a good one to acquire.

The Conditions of To-day Along the White Nile

OPENING OF THE RIVER TO FREIGHT AND PASSENGER TRAFFIC READS ALMOST LIKE A DREAM

THE opening of the White Nile to regular steamer, and even to tourist, traffic, reads almost like a dream to those who remember the difficulties and hardships narrated by Schweinfurth, Sir Samuel Baker and other explorers only some 30 years ago. During the latter years of the khalifa's rule, a long stretch of the river became so obstructed by silt that navigation was altogether impossible, and it was only in the early part of 1903 that the energetic work undertaken by the Sudan government rendered its upper reaches once more accessible. On January 1, 1904, a regular service of luxurious paddle steamers was inaugurated, running from Khartoum to Gondokoro and back in about 20 days.

After leaving Omdurman, the river soon becomes some two miles or more in width, and for a day or two the country is still desert in character, with a few mimosa trees on the banks. The first stopping place of importance is El Duedim, the starting point of the caravan route to El Obeldi, in Kordofan. Here for the first time the typical African round huts are seen, closely resembling haystacks or old-fashioned beehives. It is a busy town, with good bazaars and markets, the shore strewn with sacks of gum arabic, and covered with camels eager to drink after their long march from the west. By the third day the no harm to the structure, the commonest forms of which are a ridge like that of an ancient helmet down the middle of a shaven head, or a halo of felt-like substance standing out from the back. Necklaces of beads and of certain small crocodile bones, and massive ivory bracelets weighing as much as 26 ounces are also worn by men. A war dance is a most impressive sight, when, with long hide-covered shields and brandished clubs and spears, with feathers and erect fringes of hyena hair added to their coiffure, and leopard skins draped on their slim bodies, they bound over the plain with wild yells, raising a cloud of dust behind them. This demonstration is the preliminary to an attack on a rival village, or is held in honor of some great event, such as the accession or investiture of a new "mek" or king.

At Lake No, seven days' steam from Khartoum, the Bahr-el-Ghazal joins the Nile, and the sudd begins. For nearly 300 miles the narrow channel winds through a limitless expanse of papyrus, partly rooted, partly floating, and at times completely blocking the river. Sir S. Baker was obliged to go round by the Bahr Giraffe owing to such a block, and in 1880 Gessi, an Italian official, failing to find the current, had to cut his way through, lost many of his men, and suffered so terribly that he died shortly after rescue. The monotony of the winding channel is frequently desert is left behind, the river is considerably narrower, and the reedy banks, park-like country, dotted with trees and copses, and general coloring strikingly remind us of England, when a hot August has parched and whitened the grass. Abba Island, where the mahdi lived a holy life and received the first revelation of his mission, might be in the Thames, were it not for its 30 miles of length and the breadth of the stream on either side.

Fushoda, now officially called Kodok, is six days' voyage from Khartoum. All that is traceable of the French occupation is Col. Marchand's shadow-watered garden of bananas and vegetables, and the mounds and trenches of his fort. A few nomadic Arabs of rather a low type are still seen as far south as this, but it is the center of the most important of the black tribes of the Nile, the

SUDD CUTTING ON THE UPPER NILE.

Shilluks. Formerly a fine and fighting race, they were terribly reduced in numbers and vigor by the depredations of slave dealers and the misuse of the khalifa. In many respects they resemble their neighbors of the west and south, the Dinkas, the Nuers and the Bari. All alike are very tall and thin, often appearing painfully underfed, and from living in marshes they seem to have caught the customs of the birds, walking with a peculiar crane-like stride, and habitually standing on one leg. At military stations a little clothing is usual, but the only essential of native dress is for men the spear and for women two small aprons of untanned and uncut hide. To prevent the attacks of mosquitoes, many men smear their bodies with grease and ashes with most unbecoming effect, which becomes quite devilish when daubs of red paint are added and the hair stuck on end and dyed red. In hair dressing the Shilluks are completely distinguished from the other tribes. It is said to take some eight years for a Shilluk dandy to dress his hair to his satisfaction. He has to sleep with his head resting upon a wooden pillow specially designed to do relieved by lagoons, and it is in these that the larger crocodiles and the hippopotami with their jovial rosy faces, best loved to sport, 20 or more of the latter being sometimes seen in a shoal. The wild hippopotamuses differ as widely from our grimy, torpid, bun-eating acquaintance at the Zoo as a Scotch mountain sheep does from his cousin at London park. About half way through the sudd, a few miles of solid ground, covered with bush and fine euphorbia trees, occur on the west bank. Here a field hospital has been established for the sudd cutters, two steamers, several boats and about 300 men being still engaged in clearing the last "block," which is meanwhile circumvented by a false channel, i. e., a channel lacking current. The floating masses of vegetation frequently close up again like arctic pack-ice where a clearing has been effected, and so render vain the laborious days of work. At the Shambe lagoon the sudd practically ends, though marshy ground continues for some distance further south. The river becomes narrower and still more winding, and trees increase in number till they form dense forests.

The Lado Enclave on the west bank, leased by the Sudan government to the Congo Free State, is the prettiest part of the journey. The bank is high and clothed with thoroughly tropical forests with beautiful glades, and mountains come into view in the southwest. The troops and their families form the only population, and all come from the interior of the Congo territories; they are of various tribes—Bongo-Bongo, cannibal Niam-Niam, and others. In physique they offer a marked contrast to the Nile races, being short, sturdy, thick set and stolid-faced. The officers are mostly Italians and vie with the British in their courtesy and hospitality. A few hours' steam from Lado brings us to Gondokoro, the northernmost station of the Uganda protectorate. Here for the first time we find the British flag flying alone. The natives of the district are of the Bari tribe, distinguished some 30 or 40 years ago for its unfriendly attitude to the few Europeans who came in contact with it. With slave-raiding a thing of the past, and security assured by a good government, they now give little trouble. Many of them are now serving in the Uganda rifles, two companies of which are quartered at Gondokoro. Perhaps nothing gives a stronger impression of the enormous length of the Nile than the reflection that, although this port lies over 1,600 feet above sea level, steamers from the Mediterranean have reached it without the aid of locks. But even when the river is in flood it is only navigable as far as Refaj, a few miles further, and so, with regretful longing for the great lakes that are so near, we turn northward again.

COLONY OF MANIACS.

Sect of Maine Lunatics Who Believe Human Sacrifices Are Necessary.

Maniacal proceedings are reported among the 500 members of a so-called religious sect living in a colony on Beals Island, near Jonesport, Me. One woman who tried to kill her children, after announcing at a revival that God had ordered her to make the sacrifice, has been adjudged insane and taken to the hospital at Bangor. Jonesport deputy sheriffs and citizens have gone to the island to calm the excited inhabitants.

Persons just returned from the scene assert that during the revival the woman who was brought to the hospital called out that the voice of God had told her that a certain dog must be killed. The animal was brought into the meeting house and slain. Then she announced that she had received another Divine command that a cat in the village should be put to death. The execution was carried out, but when she arose a third time and declared she had been commanded to slay her baby a furious discussion was precipitated which broke up the meeting. The authorities heard of the affair and seized the woman before she could carry out the "command." The islanders are destroying their watches, jewelry and other articles of ornament.

TO BE GOOD, EAT APPLES.

Director of Pomology at St. Louis Says Fruit Will Cure Liqueur and Tobacco Habits.

Apples are a sure cure for the drink and tobacco habits and for the low morals which lead to crime, says John T. Stenson, director of pomology at the St. Louis world's fair. Pamphlets setting forth the efficiency of apples as a cure of bad habits will be distributed with 1,000,000 apples on Apple day, September 27.

In order to work a sure cure by means of the apple diet, Prof. Stenson advises that when one has a craving for a smoke an apple be substituted; if a drink of liquor is desired take an apple in its place; if there is a tendency to do something desperate, sit down and quietly eat an apple and reflect over it.

Just what medicinal property is contained in the apple to eradicate bad habits Mr. Stenson does not pretend to say.

Senator Cockrell's moral life and his high standard of statesmanship is cited as an incident of the benign influence of apples. It is a well-known fact that the senator makes his lunch of apples every day to the exclusion of all other food, and has kept up this diet for 30 years.

BIGGEST CARVING KNIFE.

Monster Blade Thirty Feet in Length Will Be Exhibited at St. Louis World's Fair.

The biggest carving knife ever manufactured may be seen at the St. Louis world's fair. This monster blade is 30 feet in length and has an edge as sharp as a razor. It is made out of the finest steel and the handle is a masterpiece of the carver's art, elaborately carved and beautifully polished. It would take a veritable giant to wield a knife like this. The blade is altogether of American manufacture, and it is expected to show for the first time that American cutlery has now reached a point of perfection where it fears no rivalry. The giant carving knife cost several thousand dollars, and special machinery had to be made before its construction could begin. No such knife was ever before manufactured.

PUT SUGAR IN THE SOUP.

Smith Thought It Was Tea; Then He Deliberately Lied Out of It.

There had been a glorious game of golf, followed by a jolly dinner at the club house, and the Chicago Record-Herald, sometimes it is not the correct thing to tell even a truthful story with real names, hence it happens that it was the Joneses who gave the spread and the person that happened in was Smith.

Smith is really a man of parts, wealthy, intelligent and genial and usually knows "what's what," but he is not given to swell affairs and is not dressy, withal.

A business card had taken Smith to the club house, and Jones, seeing him, called him to the table after the others had begun. Soon as he was seated, being preoccupied by salutations from other persons at the table that he knew, he was absent-mindedly sweating the cup of tea, when Mrs. Jones, hoping to make the matter quite plain to this plain man, said, shrilly:

"Ah—Mr. Smith—er—that is the soup."

"Yes, thank you," Smith nonchalantly replied. "Yes, I understand. But I always sweeten my bouillon," with the slightest emphasis on "bouillon." But Smith was at that moment a prevaricator, to put it mildly. He really thought the cup was tea, and probably never tasted sweetened bouillon in his life.

Disappointment.

The young man with the swell suit, slender frame, and jaunty air, was conscious of being observed. He stopped and looked at it. But he did not touch it.

He turned, instead, and looked at the people on the other side of the street through his monocle.

Then he resumed his sauntering. Some men are too contrary to live.—Chicago Tribune.

Strong Language.

Fredericksburg, Ind., June 20.—Rev. Enoch E. Stevens, of this place, uses strong language in speaking of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and he gives good reasons for what he says:

"I can't praise Dodd's Kidney Pills too much," says Mr. Stevens. "They have done me so much good. I was troubled with my kidneys so much that I had to get up two or three times in the night, and sometimes in the day when starting to the waterhouse the water would come from me before getting there. Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me entirely."

"I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to many people, and have never yet heard of a failure. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the things for Kidney Disease and Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure the kidneys. Good kidneys ensure pure blood. Pure blood means good health."

Wanted All to Know.

Mrs. Fairbanks tells how neglect of warning symptoms will soon prostrate a woman. She thinks woman's safeguard is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ignorance and neglect are the cause of untold female suffering, not only with the laws of health but with the chance of a cure. I did not heed the warnings of headaches, organic pains, and general weariness, until I was well nigh prostrated. I knew I had to do something. Happily I did the right thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound faithfully, according to directions, and was rewarded in a few weeks to find that my aches and pains disappeared, and I again felt the glow of health through my body. Since I have been well I have been more careful, I have also advised a number of my sick friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they have never had reason to be sorry. Yours very truly, MRS. MAY FAIRBANKS, 216 South 7th St., Minneapolis, Minn." Kentucky Chautauqua.

Preparations are well advanced for the opening of the 18th annual session of the Kentucky Chautauqua at beautiful Woodland Park, Lexington, June 28. This session will continue for ten days. The engagements already consummated for the session are notable ones. More lecturers of high class are provided this year than have been used in other years.

A notable engagement just consummated is that of Dr. Frank Gunssulus, of Chicago, who is everywhere recognized as one of the leading men on the American platform. He is not only scholarly, but a polished orator. It has possibly been fifteen years since Dr. Gunssulus has appeared on the program of the Kentucky Chautauqua. He was then in the beginning of his work. He is now in the prime of manhood, and his services on the platform are more greatly sought than almost any man who could be named. He will give two great lectures on "Savannah" and "Gladstone" on June 29 and 30.

The coming of Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson also means a great company of people. For three seasons he has been the greatest drawing card which the Chautauqua has ever had. He is by no means a freak, either, but a cultured gentleman with fine platform ability. He has a message in which his heart is interested, and of course he wins. He is a modest gentleman, and a fine orator.

The sensation of the entire session possibly, will be the coming of Miss Clara Morris, the well known American actress, who gives her charming lecture on "Behind the Footlights." Her delightful articles in magazines of recent years, brought her fresh to the public notice, and people have been charmed in reading them.

The Williamson Sisters quartette and a famous Male Quartette will be heard during the Chautauqua. Three splendid soloists are provided in Mr. Clifford M. Wiley, Mr. J. Kendrick Johnson, and Miss E. Grace Undergraff.

The famous violinist, Mr. Hugh McGibney, will also be heard with great pleasure. He is a superb artist.

Applications for tents are more numerous than for several years. Mr. Claude Buckley is at the store of the Transylvania Printing Company, where all information and programs of the Chautauqua can be secured. Those who desire tents should make early application. Season tickets are also on sale at the Transylvania Company's office, and at least one thousand of them should be sold before the Chautauqua begins.

Resolutions of Respect.

I. O. O. F. RESOLUTIONS.

Bourbon Lodge, No. 23, I. O. O. F., adopted at its regular meeting Monday night the following resolutions in memory of its beloved and faithful member, Dr. Washington Fithian:

Resolved, First, We sincerely thank God for the preservation of such an useful life for so many years. We are sure the world is better for Dr. Fithian having lived in it.

Second, While his departure leaves a vacant seat in the lodge, we will seek to show our appreciation of his memory by emulating what was good and true and noble in his life.

Third, We extend to the bereaved wife and family our sincere sympathy. May they be comforted by the precious memory of a life well spent, by the comforting influences of Divine grace, the promises of inspiration and the hope of the future. To spend this life in sowing good seed is to spend eternity in reaping a happy harvest.

E. B. JANUARY,
J. L. CLARK,
B. F. REMINGTON.

MASONIC RESOLUTIONS.

Hall of Paris Lodge, June 20, 1904. Again the death Angel has folded his wings over our Lodge and taken from us our well beloved Bro. W. Fithian, who died June 15, 1904.

Resolved, In the death of Bro. Fithian this Lodge has lost one who was dear to our hearts and one who always had a love for Masonry and his Masonic brethren.

Resolved, That in his death the community has lost a good and valuable citizen, his Church a good Christian member, his family a loving husband and father to whom the Lodge extends their sincere sympathy.

Resolved, That the furniture of the Lodge Room be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that the brethren wear the usual badge of mourning for the same time, and that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the Lodge, a copy handed to the family of our deceased Brother and that they be published in the County papers.

CHOKING CATARRH CURED

Your Money Back if Hyomei Does Not Cure You.

"Use Hyomei and be cured of catarrh," is what all who have tried it for that disease say to their friends.

It is the easiest thing in the world to stop catarrh at its beginning if you use Hyomei. Just breathe the health-giving, balsamic air for a few minutes and your catarrh will be cured.

In this city and neighboring towns, there are hundreds who can testify to the remarkable powers of Hyomei to cure catarrh. Many of the staunchest friends of this remedy to-day began its use with little hope that they would be cured, but as Clarke & Co. offered to refund the money if it did not cure, they decided to try it on that plan, and were soon restored to health.

OLD PROVISION NOT INVALIDATED.—Attorney General Hays has given to Auditor Hager a written opinion, holding that the failure of the General Assembly to incorporate in the revenue law of 1902 the provision of the old law placing a tax of $30 and $20 on billiard and pool tables does not invalidate that old provision, but that it is still in effect, and that the taxes or license can be collected.

HOSIERY.—Gauze Cotton and Lisle "Onyx" Hosiery 25c and 50c at W. Ed. Tucker's.

CEMENT.—Every year there is a new brand of cement offered on the market but they have not as yet stood the test of time. Hanover Cement has been used right here in Paris for the past 18 years. The reason of this is because it is good. We sell it because we want to sell the best. STUART & WOODFORD.

GENUINE.—The Lion Brewery's Genuine Old Lager is a boon to convalescents and those in need of a good Spring tonic. It is a great nerve elixir and will build you up. T. F. BRANNON.

There Are Others.

About twelve months ago an investment company of New York engaged in correspondence with a number of Lancaster citizens, urging them to place funds in their hands to speculate in wheat and other articles, the company getting a small per cent. for their trouble. For several months those who invested received large profits. This lured many others to invest, until some of the best business men in the town of Lancaster became involved.

A letter from the concern Monday announced to each of its customers that the firm was financially wrecked and that probably later on would resume business. Those who invested from that place are out from $10,000 to $12,000.

Enjoying Themselves on Southern Trip.

Gov. Beckham, of Kentucky, accompanied by his wife and mother, State Auditor Hager and wife, Treasurer Bosworth, Secretary of State McChesney and wife, Adjutant General Haley, Superintendent of Capitol construction Flenor, State Architect Andrews, Secretary of Capitol Commission Ware, and Messrs. Harrison and Trabue, two railroad men, arrived at Jackson, Miss., Wednesday morning, for the purpose of examining and studying the architecture of Mississippi's new Capitol and were hospitably entertained by Gov. Vanderman and other State officials. Wednesday night an informal reception was tendered the Kentuckians at the Capitol, so they might meet as many Jacksonians as possible. Every one of the five thousand electric lights were turned to full voltage so that the scene was one of unusual brilliancy and showed Mississippi's million and a quarter Capitol to perfection. Gov. Beckham declined to be interviewed on political matters, but said all that he could complimentary to Mississippi's new State House, declaring it a beautiful structure. "I had heard a great deal of the beauty of Mississippi's Capitol," said the Kentucky Governor, "before making this trip and my visit has convinced me that what I heard was very mildly expressed. The structure represents the highest type of architecture as to convenience and arrangements and I shall be eminently pleased in Kentucky secures one as handsome."

The newspapers declared Mrs. Beckham the "most beautiful woman ever seen in Jackson," and his mother a typical Southern woman. The party is at New Orleans to-day.

"LILLY WHITES" KICKING.—Fayette county is to have a negro mail carrier, a new rural route, it is said, having been established for his benefit, as the result of an agreement between white government office-holders and negro politicians. Some of the "lilly white" Republicans, who hanker for a job of any kind at the expense of the public, are kicking up a racket on account of the appointment.

Making War On Vagrants.

Police Judge Riley, of Lexington, is getting to be a terror to evil-doers in his city. Wednesday morning he announced from the bench that in the future every man brought before him who cannot show good proof that he is a working man will be sent to the city workhouse for a period of thirty days for vagrancy. He said that Lexington had more loafers than any other city in the United States, and he instructed the Police Department to arrest street loafers who congregate on the corners day and night and ogle the passersby. He began in earnest by sending over a dozen men to the workhouse.

Fight Will Be Bitter.

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Read what T. R. Beall, of Beall, Miss., has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. The fire entailed a loss of several thousand dollars with only $1,000 insurance. Mr. Hedger has been getting along nicely, having a large farm, all crops good, and his friends will learn with regret of his barn burning. He is well known by our Bourbon politicians, having moved to Arizona recently from Scott county.
